

THE MARGARET CULLEN MARSHALL HOSPICE CARE CENTER

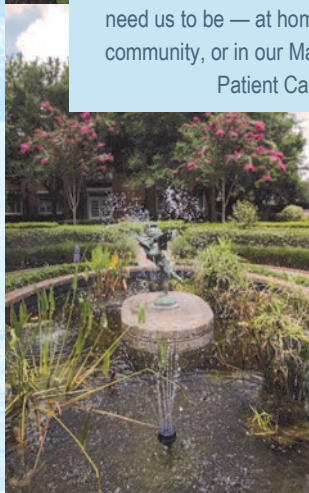

HOUSTON HOSPICE
Life Matters

In the largest medical center in the world, the estate of a former Houston Mayor has become an oasis of peace, comfort and care. Large, comfortable rooms overlook moss-covered paths, a sparkling pond, and century-old oak trees.

Hospice is not a place, rather it is a way of caring. Houston Hospice cares for patients wherever they need us to be — at home, in an assisted living community, or in our Margaret Cullen Marshall Patient Care Center.

THE MARGARET CULLEN MARSHALL HOSPICE CARE CENTER

Life Matters

All rooms are private and spacious, equipped with beds, sofa sleepers, window benches, recliners, Wi-Fi and flat-screen TVs. Comfortable family rooms with computers are located on each floor. Shower and laundry facilities are available for visitors. Families can share a meal in the garden or the dining room. The beautiful chapel, gardens and staffed kitchen are available for all. Nurses' stations are steps away from each room, and teams consisting of physicians, nurses, hospice aides, chaplains, social workers, counselors and trained volunteers specialize in providing comfort and assistance.
